1. On 21 and 22 October 1953, releases were effected in the barracks on Zaymov Boulevard at Sofia.
2. In the evening of 22 October, a number of youths released from military service were observed at the Sofia railroad station. Between 300-400 of them boarded the train to Burgas.
3. On 24 October, young men released from service were again observed at the Sofia railroad station.
4. The large number of released men observed and reported in the press indicates that this involves a large part of a class. This is probably the 1930 class which was called between August-November 1950, has served three years, and was still serving in September.
